

14th

along the path i've spent two days by the side of two animals not native to home. Less magic overflows here, and it seems I'm not the only one looking for an easy path through this place.

When I first saw this one, I thought I may have to worry, as it seems to be almost twice my mass.
After observation it seems harmless, and as it grew dim I saw it was a glowing creature and took the opportunity to follow its path.

↑ rough-hewn
body with
spindly legs

seem
to hitch
a ride on the larger
creature

← visibly fills with magic (like when my skin
flushes!)

wave

it rained my first night, and the large creature seemed to have absorbed more magic than I'd thought possible - it swelled belly-like and filled completely with its bright fill before splatting to the ground as a torrent of liquid magic rushed out!

when a flood
of magic hits,
these creatures
(see top of page)
flip over to make
the magic flow
over them!

-152